A layered approach

to protect against
COVID-19

Even if your vaccination is up-to-date, it's still possible to contract and spread COVID-19. That's why it's important to use multiple layers of public health measures to protect yourself against COVID-19.

Stay at home
when sick

Improve
indoor airflow
by opening
windows when possible

Consider
wearing a mask as an added layer
of protection,
even if it's not required

Wash your hands for at least 20
seconds or use hand sanitizer
often

Use caution
in closed
and crowded
spaces

Clean
frequently
touched
surfaces/
objects

Follow
travel-related
measures

Like wearing layers to avoid the cold in the winter, there are many ways to protect against COVID-19.
